Breakthrough Health

Working with Cayu has been one of the most transformative parts of our journey. Zamir, Ricardo, and Meerim have been incredible partners. They were thoughtful, fast, and genuinely committed to understanding what Breakthrough Health is trying to solve. Their talent is undeniable, but what stood out most is how deeply they listened and how much they cared about our mission. These principles reflect in their product, Cayu.

We're building a platform designed to close the gap between Hepatitis C diagnosis and cure in underserved communities, essentially people who are too often overlooked by the healthcare system. Cayu's app building capabilities are giving us the foundation we need to bring that vision to life. Their work is helping us build the connective tissue that has been missing for far too long: seamless patient engagement tools, clinician coordination workflows, real-time visibility, and the digital guidance patients need to get all the way to cure.

For the patients we serve, wins do not come often. A 12-week cure can change someone's entire trajectory. With Cayu, we can help deliver those wins reliably, compassionately, and at scale. We could not ask for a better technical partner as we work to bring life-changing care to the communities that need it most.
